

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A LCD device has a black matrix defining a plurality of pixel areas in the LCD device. An interconnect layer formed on a 5 TFT panel includes a first interconnect line passing through the pixel area and a second interconnect line passing outside the pixel area. The first interconnect line is lower in a product of a thickness thereof by a surface reflectance thereof than the second interconnect line.